Dear Professor Crutchfield,

I will appreciate it if you kindly clarify the term "in due course". I have sent my first two e-mails to you on Friday, July 17. Are all three of you continuously on travel ever since? It takes 5 minutes to look into section 4 of my paper (the link of which I have provided in my first e-mail) and to respond accordingly.

I hope to hear back from you by the end of this week, and I think it would be fair to ask you to modify the reference to my work. In the absence of your response, I will consider posting a comment on arXiv, but I truly believe that the preferred solution (for all four of us) is that you gentlemen post a v2 of your arXiv paper, where my comment is addressed.

Sincerely,
Neri

Dear Prof. Merhav,

We did indeed receive your messages, thank you.
However, we are on travel, but will respond in due course.

Looking forward to the exchange,

Jim
